We do practice open-door policy
but this follows a certain parameters:

1. Managers, supervisors and other company officers have hectic time to do a small talks with you, so find the perfect time. When you got the chance, be professional with your words.
2. It is right to consult your immediate supervisor first before going directly to the managers, CEO and etc. Following the hierarchy is the best step to take!
3. It is also best to identify and resolve the issue on your own first. Practice your problem-solving skills.

A clean as you go policy is a cleaning strategy used to minimize risks to hygiene, health, and safety.

The clean as you go method involves taking opportunities to clean continually throughout the working day and making cleaning part of your daily routine to ensure that surfaces, equipment, waste, and the premises are clean, hygienic, and clutter free.

- Never leave the restroom dirty. Smelly toilets are big turn offs.
- Lock the door carefully when you are inside. If someone is inside, don't peep under the doors or knock endlessly. Wait for the other person to come out.
- Female employees should avoid carrying their handbags inside the washroom. Do not carry expensive items to the restroom.
- Make sure you do not wet the toilet seat. Do not throw water on the floor as someone might slip and get hurt.

- Females should always sit on the toilet seat while peeing. Male employees should always stand a little close to the toilet seat to avoid dripping.
- Never forget to use flush once you are done. Check the toilet seat for unwanted stains or substance. Do not hesitate to call the toilet attendant if the flush is not working.
- Make it a point to wash your hand with an antiseptic soap or sanitizer every time you use the restroom. Use a tissue paper to wipe off hands.
- Do not spit on walls. It is absolutely childish to write names or make designs on toilet walls.
