

1. Policy Statement

The physical appearance is the first thing people use to form an initial impression. It is an aspect of human nature to draw conclusions about individuals based on what we see in front of us. Customers, clients, and management probably have higher standards for physical appearance than what most would consider acceptable on a given occasion. Physical appearances, in the way we dress, would project a professional image and atmosphere which would be suitable for the work environment.

The Management recognizes the growing market practice of giving employees the chance to organize their wardrobe and boost employee morale by creating a comfortable work day conducive to productivity and performance. Therefore, EmpireOne BPO Solutions, Inc. shall adapt an All-Week Casual Day provided it follows the guidelines outlined.

The objective of this policy is to provide guidelines on how employees should be able to present themselves as the image brand for EmpireOne BPO Solutions, Inc.

2. Coverage

This is applicable to all employees of EmpireOne BPO Solutions, Inc.

3. General Guidelines

- The recommended dress code for all employees of EmpireOne BPO Solutions Inc. is Business Casual every Monday shift through Thursday shift. Business casual attire is described as a professional and clean, yet casual image and does not include sloppy, tattered, messy, or weekend-style clothing attire. When there are client visits and corporate meetings professional business attire should be worn.
- Every Friday shift, weekend shift, and Holiday shift will allow week-end style clothing or “dress down”. Weekend style clothing or “dress down” is described as a decent and presentable look that would not attract undue attention from visitors, co-employees, and clients of the Company.
 - Sideburns, moustaches and/or beards should be appropriately trimmed.
 - Hair neatly combed.
 - Employees wearing slippers/flip flops may be allowed to enter office premises only under extreme weather conditions. However, employees will not be allowed to enter the production area with wet slippers/flip flops. Employee must change to proper foot attire upon entry to the production floor.
 - Employee who is required to wear slippers/flip flops due medical reasons must submit a medical certificate to Admin and HR stating condition.
 - Skirts/dress must be no higher than 2-inches above the knee at least. Wearing of skirt or dress must be done in good taste without provocatively revealing any part of the female lower extremities. Micro skirts or shorts are not allowed.
 - Female employees wearing sleeveless blouses should use a shawl or jacket while inside the production floor.
 - Cross dressing is allowed provided that employees wear the appropriate attire as stipulated in the Dress Code Policy intended for Male and Female employees.

- Any employee who will report to work dressed improperly will be advised and sent home to change his/her clothing based on the recommended dress code for that shift day and must return to work appropriately and timely. An employee's failure to return to work dressed properly may result in appropriate disciplinary actions based on the Company Code of Conduct and Discipline. In addition, if the employee fails to report to work when sent home to change will be considered an unauthorized absence. Further, non-compliance of the provisions set forth by this policy may result in appropriate disciplinary actions, up to and including termination based on the Company Code of Conduct and Discipline.
- Immediate superiors, management, and compliance team will take ownership to enforce the policy. The HR department will partner with Operations in settling disputes regarding the interpretation of the policy. Any exemption or exception of the rule on dress code will need the written approval of the Director of Operations, or HR department (in the absence of the former), and must be cascaded sitewide. The cascade will be in a form of a "Memorandum", and should include the reason for dress down and duration.
- Employees who are on their day off and visiting the site should follow the recommended dress code of that day shift.
- All provisions indicated are not all-encompassing and therefore good judgment on your part as to the appropriateness of the attire you intend to wear to work is necessary.
