

1. Purpose

This policy establishes the guidelines governing probationary employment, performance evaluation, and the criteria for regularization of employees, ensuring compliance with the Labor Code of the Philippines and alignment with company and client performance standards.

2. Probationary Employment Period

All newly hired employees shall undergo a probationary period of six (6) months from their date of engagement, in accordance with applicable labor laws.

During this period, employees are expected to demonstrate satisfactory performance, professional conduct, and full compliance with company policies, client requirements, and operational standards.

Failure to meet the established standards shall be a valid ground for termination due to failure to qualify for regular employment.

3. Communication and Acknowledgment of Standards

At the start of employment, the Company shall communicate the reasonable standards and expectations required for regularization, which may include but are not limited to:

- Job performance and productivity
- Quality of work and accuracy
- Attendance and punctuality
- Adherence to schedules and productivity metrics
- Compliance with company policies and Code of Conduct and Discipline (COCD)
- Professional behavior, teamwork, and communication

Employees shall be required to acknowledge these standards in writing. Failure to meet these standards may result in non-regularization.

4. Performance Evaluation Process

Probationary employees shall undergo periodic performance evaluations to assess their suitability for regular employment.

Evaluations may include, but are not limited to:

- Mid-Probation Review (around the 3rd month or as determined by management)
- Final Evaluation/ 5th Month Review (prior to completion of the 6th month)

PROBATION APPRAISAL / REGULARIZATION POLICY

Evaluation criteria may include:

- Key Performance Indicators (KPIs) such as AHT, CSAT, QA scores, and adherence (for operations roles)
- Training and nesting performance
- Attendance and reliability
- Behavioral and professional conduct
- Compliance with internal policies and client requirements

All evaluations shall be documented, discussed with the employee, and acknowledged accordingly.

5. Continuous Feedback and Performance Management

Supervisors and managers are responsible for providing timely and regular feedback throughout the probationary period. Where performance gaps are identified, the employee shall be:

- Informed of such deficiencies; and
- Given a reasonable opportunity to improve within the probationary period

6. Regularization

An employee shall be granted regular employment status upon:

- Completion of the probationary period; and
- Demonstration of satisfactory performance based on established standards

A Notice of Regularization shall be issued to confirm regular employment.

If no notice of termination or non-regularization is issued prior to the end of the probationary period, the employee shall be deemed regularized by operation of law.

7. Non-Regularization

An employee may be separated from employment due to failure to qualify for regular employment based on reasonable standards made known at the time of engagement.

Grounds for non-regularization may include, but are not limited to:

- Failure to meet required performance metrics or KPIs
- Poor quality of work or productivity
- Attendance and punctuality issues
- Behavioral concerns or failure to meet conduct standards
- Violations of company policies, including the Code of Conduct and Discipline (COCD)
- Failure to meet training or nesting requirements
- Failure to complete pre-employment requirements within the prescribed period

A Notice of Non-Regularization shall be issued to the employee prior to the completion of the probationary period.

8. Early Termination During Probationary Period

The Company reserves the right to terminate probationary employment prior to the completion of the six (6)-month period for any of the following:

- Just causes as defined under the Labor Code (e.g., serious misconduct, willful disobedience, fraud, gross neglect of duties)
- Failure to meet reasonable and lawful performance standards
- Violations of company policies or breach of confidentiality

Such termination shall be subject to applicable due process requirements.

9. Client and Operational Considerations

Regularization may also be subject to:

- Client-specific performance standards
- Program requirements and business needs
- Availability of accounts or projects

The Company reserves the right to make employment decisions based on operational and client-driven requirements.

10. Documentation and Records Management

All records related to probationary employment, including the following, shall be properly documented and maintained by the Human Resources Department as part of the employee's official 201 file:

- Performance evaluations
- Coaching logs
- Notices and acknowledgments

10. Effect of Non-Regularization or Separation

Employees who are not regularized or whose employment is terminated during the probationary period shall be entitled only to:

- Salary earned up to the last day of work; and
- Applicable statutory benefits in accordance with law

11. Policy on Extension of Probationary Period

As a general rule, probationary employment shall not exceed six (6) months.

Any extension of the probationary period may only be allowed under exceptional circumstances, such as:

- Authorized absences or interruptions of work; or
- Situations where the employee voluntarily agrees to an extension

PROBATION APPRAISAL / REGULARIZATION POLICY

Any such extension must be mutually agreed upon in writing and must comply with applicable labor laws.

POLICY REVIEW

This policy will continue to be in force unless superseded by a revised policy. The company reserves the right to amend, abrogate, modify, rescind/ reinstate the entire policy or any part of it at any time.
